

Role Play- A Standup Special with Seaton Smith

Overview

Role Play is a fresh new standup special loosely based on the life and times of comedian Seaton Smith. Derived from his brand new comedy album, Bolonga Meat, this show weaves his wildly popular standup act with real life stories, and stylized short film segments into hilarious chunks of bite-sized comedy.

Seaton plays himself- along with a host of other crazy characters- in a series that's one part docu- style standup, and two parts epic, action movie-style vignettes. This show is the hyper-real extrapolation of the modern creative class... employment is temporary, sex is negotiated via cell phone, love and stability looked at as modern myths played out on sitcoms.

Role Play is smart, cool, and ultra- connected... but mostly, this special is funny stories from funny people. Like this sample:

Look & Feel

Role Play takes place in the world of the standup comic... a world in which the absurd is every day, there's lots of free time for hobbies like sex and weed, and everything can be funny in the right light. The show is set anywhere Seaton goes... on the street... in the comedy clubs... on the road. But the reality of these places and the way they exist in Seaton's imagination are two very different things.

Our unique visual style will reflect these realities... one part doc style verite, one part sexy, raffish modern cinema.

Its the tension between these images that will bring us many of our big laughs- think True Hollywood Story for everyday life. In season one, our sketches will come directly from standup routines... including our host and and star, Seaton Smith.

Sketches

A brief selection of season one sketch ideas.

Republican Adventure-

Seaton tells the story of the time he almost became a Republican. Using a standup segment w/ new sketch material and news clips, its a multi-platform mashup of funny.

0 2015 PFLY

Bed and Breakfast

Seaton discovers that a 'Bed and Breakfast' is actually just a socially acceptable venue for kinky sex and homemade biscuits. After breakfast, he makes his way to beautiful waterfall where he re-discovers the wonders of nature and tries to remember whether he actually knows how to swim.

Rat Smack

In this part animated adventure, Seaton tells the tale of the worst thing he ever saw.

Roommate

Rosebud wants to see Seaton's place... but there's a problem. His roommate is the grossest person he's ever lived with... so he tries to convince her not to come over.

College Show

In a Roshamon type of story Seaton tries to explain to his agent why he was fired from a college show. Seaton explains to college kids the perils of trying to be clean- but also help them learn important things like what to do when you lose a condom while having sex.

Young Girls

Seaton gets in trouble when he calls Rosebud old and he has to explain why he hates young girls.

My GF

Seaton takes Rosebud to his family reunion he tries to explain about the different types of white woman to his aunt.

How many?

When Rosebud wants to know how many sexual partners he's had he avoids answering for fear he'll have to find out HER number.

Drunk with Confidence

Seaton is forced to re-evaluate his place in the sexual pecking order when he's dissed by a drunk woman vomiting out the side of a car in the middle of the street. How can somebody with such little couth look at him with such disdain? Seaton needs to figure out what this means.

Brooklyn is Dangerous

Seaton keeps getting messed w/ my the cops, even while living among modern day Sodom. He's trying to talk his way out of a parking ticket while drunk hipsters set fire to the world just across the street.

How Real Can You Get

Seaton's adventure into reality television. Seaton is "trained" on how to survive the zombie apocalypse. This could serve as entire episode or a touchstone story spanning an entire season... there is nothing quite so surreal as "reality."
